

Lansing Hunts Sex Killer Of Little Boy, Four

Lansing, Mich., June 24 (AP)—The brutal beer bottle slaying of a small boy within four blocks of Michigan's Capitol building set off a statewide search today for a "sex fiend."

The body of four-year-old Walter Eaton, his throat slashed, was found shortly after midnight in a vacant, weed-grown lot.

A hospital examination revealed he had been criminally attacked "while he was either dead or dying."

Grief-stricken, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Eaton, who had adopted the child from neighbors when he was an infant, awaited reports on the search of skid row hangouts in the neighborhood.

Little blue-eyed Walter had never known the Eatons were not his real parents.

State police, sheriff's officers and authorities in neighboring cities joined Lansing police in the manhunt. Known sex offenders in Lansing were rounded up.

Police said the boy evidently had wandered away from an older sister, Emily, 11, when they were returning home from a visit to a relative last night.

Walter was slain barely a block from his home in the downtown area. Volunteer searchers found his body shortly after midnight.

It lay face-down in a pool of blood between two steel drums on the property of a chemical company. A broken beer bottle was found beside it.

Working on a woman's report that a "tall, thin man" had been seen in the vicinity, police searched a shabby area of cheap rooming houses and railroad sidings for the killer.

Ingham county Coroner Ray Gorsline said Walter met his death about 10:30 p. m. (EST). This would have been shortly after the boy's sister noticed his absence from her side and ran.

Secret Washington Building Has Blaze

Munitions Warehouses Have Narrow Escape

Washington, June 24 (AP)—A top secret naval building always under heavy guard today was the center of a three-alarm fire that also threatened a row of large munitions warehouses.

The fire was reported under control at 3 a. m. (EST).

One man familiar with the navy installation said the flames had spread to the warehouses just a few feet away "the entire south-eastern part of Washington would have blown up."

The area is considered so secret that shore patrolmen with drawn revolvers kept even Washington police, including the chief of police, from entering.

The navy refused any immediate estimate of damage, explanation of the cause of the fire, or to tell what was in building 13 of the naval research magazine.

A reporter for the Washington Times-Herald said, however, that the two-story building was completely gutted.

The navy asked help of municipal fire departments at 2:23 A. M. A second alarm followed shortly, and then a third. All available police scout cars were rushed to the fire.

But shore patrolmen refused to let police enter, holding them off with drawn revolvers.

National Chinese Navy Detains Ship In Port Blockade

(By The Associated Press)

The National Chinese Navy enforced a blockade on Communist-held Chinese ports today. A radio message from the Egyptian ship Star of Suez, received in Shanghai, said she was forcibly detained by a National Chinese warship after clearing Shanghai.

The message said the ship, which is chartered by an American company, was stopped by eight rounds of gunfire. Passengers became alarmed and put on their life preservers. Chinese naval officers boarded the Star of Suez. The ship was afterward permitted to proceed to Japan but her captain reported the Shanghai pilot boat was apparently under arrest of the Nationalists.

This is the first ship out of a Communist-held port to be detained and boarded by the Nationalists since they proclaimed their blockade. Foreign shipping in Shanghai was bombed by Nationalist planes early this week.

FACTORY DROPS 1,200

Detroit, (AP)—Export restrictions and "unsettled business conditions in some areas" have led the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. to reduce its production force by 1,200 persons, the company announced Thursday. Industrial relations director Carl E. Schneider reported, however, that Burroughs production employment still was 50 per cent above the figure at the close of the war.

Taft-Hartley Foes United To Abolish Injunction Feature

By MAX HALL

Washington, June 24 (AP)—Senators fighting against the Taft-Hartley Act claimed today that they are unified at last and will knock out its emergency injunction power.

Whether or not their claim proved correct, it was clear that the Senate's parliamentary situation had changed drastically.

A vote on the crucial question was unlikely today and may not come until Tuesday.

The unifying factor was an unexpected move yesterday by Senator Lucas of Illinois, the leader of the Senate Democrats.

He introduced a new "plant seizure" proposal which he told reporters President Truman "would obviously approve." Two other proposals for government seizure of plants to delay "national emergency" strikes had already been voted down by the Senate.

Lucas introduced his plan in such a way as to make injunctions the big issue. He put the proposal in the form of an amendment to an "injunction-or-seizure" proposal by Senator Taft (R-Ohio). The Lucas amendment would simply remove the Taft injunction authority and leave in the seizure part.

Taft was caught by surprise, as he later acknowledged to reporters. But he fought back hard and swiftly.

He staved off a vote yesterday. Then, with his support, Senator Holland (D-Ia.) and three other senators—Hoeey (D-N.C.), Bricker (R-Ohio), and Schoeppel (R-Kans.)—introduced a new 60-day injunction proposal, with seizure taken out completely. This was offered under such parliamentary conditions as to be voted on before the Lucas amendment.

Thus the issue was narrowing down in the Senate's battle over strikes imperiling the national health or safety. The big choice now is between the Holland and Lucas amendments. The decision will be close.

Senators Resent Arms Plan Heat

By DON WHITEHEAD

Washington, June 24 (AP)—Some senators today "resented" the State Department's pressure for action on a $1,500,000,000 arms-for-Europe program.

Certain Senate leaders said privately the administration is asking for too much too fast—without regard to the political "timing" of the requests.

There has been talk that President Truman will send the arms aid plan to congress before the Senate has given its approval to the North Atlantic treaty.

Secretary of State Acheson has told congress the arms program must be approved at this session to maintain the United States' "firm policy" against Russia.

The Senate leaders who spoke to a reporter said they feel this action will tend to put too much emphasis on the arms plan—and thus lend weight to the arguments of treaty critics who say the pact is nothing more than another military alliance.

One senator put it this way:

"The real value of the treaty is that it marshals the vast military industrial and spiritual power of the United States against aggression. The value of that cannot be calculated in dollars."

"But the administration comes along and puts the emphasis on a measly figure of $1,000,000,000."

"It's absurd to shift the emphasis to the equipment which will be distributed among 11 pact nations. The arms program is being given an importance completely out of relation to its value."

The body of Raymond C. Frye, 55, was found in the basement of his home, Coroner H. W. Davis ruled the death a suicide.

Frye had testified Monday that Sheriff Engel asked money in return for renewal of his license to sell liquor at the Log Tavern in Baldwin.

Ill for several weeks, the witness was unable to leave his home to make his statements, so Judge Gerald M. Meehan and Assistant Attorney General Harry W. Jackson moved the hearing to his bedside.

The sheriff is accused by a group of citizens of failing to carry out his duties as a law enforcement official. Testifying yesterday, he denied receiving money from Frye or anyone else in payment for a liquor license.

Engel went to Frye's home after the shooting, but was taking no part in the investigation, Davis said.

An inquest has been set for next Thursday. Meanwhile, under orders of Davis and Prosecutor Percy Langston, the Frye home is locked up and a constable has been placed on guard.

One of Frye's employees found his body. He had hurried to the home at the request of Mrs. Nora Frye, who had received a note from her husband delivered by their nine-year-old daughter, Barbara.

The note instructed her to avoid going to the basement alone when she returned home. She then sent the tavern worker to the house.

Young Iowan Held In Fiendish Murder

Brute Slaying Of Woman In Tavern Admitted

By DWIGHT MCCORMACK

Morrison, Ia., June 24 (AP)—A young man who authorities said admitted to his mother he killed and fiendishly mutilated a pretty 22-year-old woman, was held in the Grundy county jail today.

Sheriff John A. Meyer said he would question the man, Edward J. (Buddy) Beckwith, 27, of Morrison, and probably would file a first degree murder charge against him today.

The nearly nude body of Mrs. Irma Jean Stahlhut, mother of a 13-month-old son, was found early yesterday morning by her husband, Harvey, in a large walk-in refrigerator of the tavern they operated here.

Both breasts had been cut off the body, her throat cut from ear to ear and her body cut open "down the middle," the sheriff said. There also were two stab wounds in the heart. One of the breasts, Meyer said, was found in a bloody slip and brassiere tangled around her neck and shoulders.

Beckwith was identified by three patrons as the last person besides Mrs. Stahlhut remaining in the tavern when they left Wednesday night. He was seized by a posse of four men in a corn field near Morrison, a community of 150 persons in north central Iowa. He offered no resistance.

Sheriff Meyer said Beckwith when found was lying face down in a muddy cornfield and was "soaking wet" from heavy rain which had fallen shortly before.

Mrs. Stahlhut was working alone in the tavern Wednesday night, 27, said he had been tending a booth at a celebration in nearby Dike, Ia. The couple's child, Dean Arthur Stahlhut, was being cared for by neighbors.

When Prosecutor John M. Kelley, jr., finally said "that's all," Miss Coplon remained seated on the witness stand. Then for nearly ten minutes she shouted that she had been "entrapped" and "framed."

"This case is so smelly that it smells to high heaven," she cried in hysterical tones.

Earlier, in another emotional outburst, she had shouted that "I'm not a Communist and I've never been a Communist."

"I don't understand this whole case," she screamed. "I'm innocent and that I am being framed."

Jail Breaker Gives Up To Mosquitoes

Stanton, Mich., June 24 (AP)—A hungry, mosquito-bitten jail breaker surrendered to Montcalm county authorities late yesterday after nine hours of freedom in uncomfortable swamp and brush country near here.

Undersheriff Guy Wagar said he was not surprised to have Wade Murphy, of Detroit, step into full view of a patrolling police car and raise his hands in surrender.

Murphy, awaiting arraignment on an auto violation charge, had escaped by prying loose some bricks in an air ventilator of the jail.

Russians Must Be Kept On Defensive, Acheson Declares

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, June 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson is convinced that Soviet Russia is now on the defensive in "the struggle for the soul of Europe"—and must be kept that way.

He said yesterday the Paris meeting of the big four foreign ministers showed that Russia does not dare follow the example of the west by relaxing its grip in occupied Germany.

Acheson's prescription for keeping the advantage is to drive ahead steadily with the measures already in effect, or proposed—Marshall plan aid, the North Atlantic Treaty, and the Administration's Arms-For-Europe program.

The Big Four conference, Acheson said, served—like the gauge on a steam boiler—to measure the pressures between Russia and the west.

"I think that the recording of this conference is that the position of the west has grown steadily, greatly, in strength and that the position of the Soviet Union in regard to the struggle for the soul of Europe has changed from the offensive to the defensive," he said.

"The significance of this is very important in explaining why no agreement was possible about Germany."

"Being on the defensive, the Soviet Union was forced to take, or did take at any rate, the attitude that it would not relax its hold in any way whatever upon any area which it controlled in Germany. It would not relax its hold on the eastern zone of Germany or on the eastern sector of Berlin."

By contrast, Acheson said, the aim of the west has been to return self-government as quickly as possible, under a system guaranteeing basic human freedoms and containing the necessary safeguards for European and world security.

"The Soviet Union was totally unable to accept that position because that meant relaxing their hold upon what they had," Acheson declared. "This meant that they could no longer carry on this Sovietization, this domination of the life of Germany which they controlled."

"To do so they would have to give, as we have given, the Germans a large voice in the conduct of their own affairs. That the Soviets were apparently afraid to do. They knew that if they did that, they would no longer be able to control what they now hold in Germany."

Bathers Watch 33 Die In Dutch Plane

Airliner Falls In Flames At Bari, Italy

Bari, Italy, June 24 (AP)—Thirty-three persons were killed yesterday when a KLM (Royal Dutch Airlines) plane crashed in flames here in view of horrified bathers.

The plane, an American-built Constellation, was on the last leg of a flight from Batavia, Indonesia, to Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

Twenty-eight of the victims were Dutch, including 11 crewmembers and the other five Egyptians who had boarded the craft at Cairo.

Witnesses said the plane seemed to fall straight down from about 16,000 feet, level off at 1,500 and then fall tail-first into 120 feet of water.

Bathers watching from the beach said there was an underwater explosion soon after the plane sank. Rescue workers believed it was from a container of compressed air or oxygen.

Air experts here said preliminary investigation indicated the plane's tail fell off before it hit the water.

Sun Withers Up Crops In Arid States

(By The Associated Press)

Sunny skies cast a dark shadow over dry-stricken farm lands in parts of the nation's northeastern states today.

The continued warm and rainless weather in lower New England, New Jersey and New York state threatened heavy damage to farm crops.

No relief from the long hot spell appeared in sight. Some areas have had no rain for more than a month. Temperatures also have been running high during the rainless period, causing damage to many fruit and vegetable crops. Water shortages also have been reported in parts of the drought-stricken area.

New Jersey's drought was 33 days old and no rain was forecast. Crops in the state's largest agricultural county, Burlington, have "definitely reached the critical stage," the county farm agent said. He said potatoes, sweet corn, snap beans and asparagus have suffered most damage from the drought. Crop damage in New Jersey was estimated at more than $10,000,000.

In Paterson, N. J., a Presbyterian minister prayed for rain.

Five communities near New Brunswick, N. J., have banned lawn sprinkling and car washing.

Conditions in the heavily wooded areas in New York state and in much of New England remained hazardous. There have been 86 fires in the Adirondack mountains since June 11. Ten minor fires broke out yesterday in the lower Adirondacks. Rain in the northern Adirondacks earlier this week brought only temporary relief, the state conservation department said.

The unusually dry spring has hurt crops in unirrigated areas of eastern Oregon. Wheat, hay and peas losses are estimated up to 25 per cent of the crop but the exact loss will depend on future weather. There is plenty of farm irrigation, due to the heavy snow-packet last winter, but some towns have had to ration lawn sprinkling.

Hot and humid weather hit the middle Missouri valley yesterday, sending the mercury into the 90's over most of Nebraska and Kansas, northwestern Missouri and southwestern Iowa. It reached 97 at Lincoln, Neb. Readings in the Gulf states and at Fresno, Calif., the day's high was 98. But Presidio, Tex., had the country's top mark, 110.

Men Buried Alive In Flaming Asphalt

Three Dead In Blast At Perth Amboy, N. J.

Perth Amboy, N. J., June 24 (AP)—Three men died—two of them buried alive under flaming asphalt—as a crackling series of explosions destroyed a $500,000 asphalt plant here yesterday.

The shriveled, tar-covered bodies of two volunteer firemen could not be recovered for several hours after they were blown into a pit of boiling asphalt. A third victim, a workman, died of burns later. Eight others were injured, two critically.

Black, greasy smoke rose hundreds of feet into the air over the ruined California Refinery Co. plant. It was visible as far away as Manhattan, 25 miles to the north.

The first explosion let go at 2 p. m. and fire spread rapidly to adjoining stills and storage tanks. Then a 10,000-gallon asphalt tank blew 50 feet into the air, spewing its blazing contents.

Dead in that blast were volunteer firemen Lawrence Dambach, 50, father of four children, and Howard Adams, 36, who leaves a six-year-old son.

Michael Tonaway, 64, died of burns last night in Perth Amboy General hospital.

Bus Ditched Near Baltimore, 34 Hurt

Baltimore, June 24 (AP)—All but one of 35 passengers and the driver of a New York-Washington Greyhound bus were injured today when it pitched off U. S. 40 just northeast of Baltimore.

Only two or three of the injured were seriously hurt.

The bus swerved off the highway, hit a concrete culvert, pitched 15 feet across a creek 10 feet below the roadway, and nosed into an embankment.

Gerald Philip Thibodeau, 25, of Philadelphia, the driver, told police he became drowsy and the next thing he remembered, swerving to avoid a car.

Legislature Voted Education Program $29,637,335 Grant

Loyal Democrats Block Upset Of Vetoes

By JACK I. GREEN

Lansing, June 24 (AP)—The 65th Michigan legislature ended its regular session today with the state's new budget $45,000,000 to $54,000,000 in the red.

The formal adjournment session this morning was attended by a handful of legislators and lasted only a few minutes. Adjournment gavels fell in both Houses on the stroke of noon as required in the constitution.

In the final hours of Thursday's session, the legislature comprised a month-old fight over the appropriations for state-supported colleges and universities. It gave the educational program a grant of $29,637,335—$1,344,223 less than the senate had insisted upon a month ago and $902,533 more than the house had demanded when the lawmakers walked out May 20 and left the college money bill hanging in mid-air.

Revenue Estimates Differ

Out of the compromise the University of Michigan got $11,436,315 for the fiscal year starting July 2, which was $450,000 more than the house had wanted and compared with a senate figure of $12,000,000. The University received $9,750,000 in the present year, had asked for $12,500,000 and the budget office had recommended it be granted $11,800,000.

Ruthven Disappointed

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 24 (AP)—President Alexander G. Ruthven today criticized the legislature for cutting more than one million dollars from the budget request of the University of Michigan.

He said the appropriation of $11,436,315 for the annual operation of the school was "far below the University's minimum needs."

Michigan state college got $9,284,190, which was $350,000 more than the house had wanted to allow last month and compared with the original senate figure of $9,954,936. The college received $8,065,000 in the current year, had asked for $10,675,204 and the budget office had recommended it receive $9,685,000.

The estimate of a budget deficiency of $45,000,000 came from the appropriation committee's technical staff, while the estimate of $54,000,000 came from state controller Robert F. Steadman.

The difference lay in their estimates of the amount of revenue to be expected next year and the amount of surplus to be left at the end of the current fiscal year.

Grange At Stonington To Repair Lighthouse; Has 40th Anniversary

The Bay de Noquette Grange at Stonington last night marked its 40th anniversary at Grange hall and started another year of activities with sponsorship of a project to restore historic old Peninsula Point lighthouse, a landmark on upper Green bay for more than 80 years.

As active today in the affairs of the Stonington community as it was forty years ago when the Grange was organized there, its members have a long history of community service behind them and an eager interest in the future.

Composed largely of farmers of Scandinavian heritage and their families, the Grange members have a lively interest in their current project to save the old Peninsula Point lighthouse. For they hope that it may win them one of the prizes, if not first place, in the Sears Roebuck Foundation sponsored community service contest which is being conducted by the National Grange.

Repair Bee Sunday

Yet the project was considered before the contest was announced and is not undertaken just for purpose of the contest. The Grange would do it anyway, regardless of the contest.

Like other projects of the Grange at Stonington, the "save the old lighthouse" campaign calls for active work on the part of its members and the cooperation of the community. Peder Pedersen, Grange Master, and supervisor of Bay de Noe township, has announced that repair work on the lighthouse will be started Sunday morning in a "repair bee" that will need the help of all able-bodied Stonington men.

"We are going to put on our overalls, bring out hammers, paint brushes, saws and tools and go to work early Sunday morning," Pedersen announced. "The families can come along for a picnic in the park at the lighthouse." Arthur Sundstrom is chairman of the committee to repair the lighthouse and he said that interest in the project extends throughout Delta county. He found this out when he started to buy materials for the repair job. Business houses donated them to help out.

For The Community

Interest in the lighthouse project of the Grange is widespread. When the U. S. Forest Service announced last fall that it did not have funds to maintain the lighthouse and was considering razing it, the public reaction was immediate.

The people of Stonington, rallying through their Grange, offered to help repair the lighthouse so it would not be destroyed. After all, it has been a familiar landmark there since 1869, although out of commission for the past 20 years.

The Delta county Historical Society directed the attention of senators and congressmen of the district to the value of the historical structure. The Forest Service received letters and telegrams from former Stonington residents now living as far distant as New York and Chicago, opposing the suggested razing of the lighthouse.

The Grange took up the project as a community service effort. It now has an agreement with the Forest Service in which the Grange will repair and maintain the lighthouse, while the Forest Service keeps up the surrounding park.

Plan Meeting There

Entering the project in the National Grange contest, the Grange at Stonington is hopeful that it may win one of the several prizes offered, totaling $50,000. First prize is a new Grange hall valued at $12,000, or an equal value in community equipment, such as a fire truck, machinery, etc.

The Grange is also cooperating with the Delta county Historical Society in plans for a county-wide picnic meeting to be held at the old lighthouse on Sunday afternoon, August 7. A history of the Stonington community will be presented at that time.

Organized June 23, 1909, the Bay de Noquette Grange had as its organizer Deputy John Wylie. Its first master was Ole Erickson, now deceased; the late James Stratton was secretary; and its treasurer was Semer Thorsen, still active in the organization.

At the anniversary meeting last night Thorsen presented a history of the Grange, and Oliver Peterson and Arthur Smith, long-time members of the organization, also spoke.

Has 63 Members

Other speakers were Art Schaffer of the U. S. Forest Service, and Frank Bender, jr., Ford River, president of the Delta Historical Society.

The entertainment program included a duet by Miss Marilyn Johnson and Miss Emily Pedersen, and group singing, accompanied by Mrs. John Graese. Art Sundstrom sang "O Nikolina," accompanied by Miss Shirley Johnson. Dancing followed the program. Refreshments were served.

The Grange now has 63 members. The officers are as follows: Peder Pedersen, master; Charles Grand Marais—Gordon MacDonald, 44, formerly of Grand Marais, captain of a Waukegan fishing tug "Julia M." owned by William Tornovich, was stricken with a heart attack and died June 13 while setting out fish nets 30 miles off Waukegan harbor.

Mr. MacDonald fell unconscious about 4:45 after complaining that he felt ill and was pronounced dead by Dr. Floyd W. Castator shortly before 10 p. m. when the tug arrived back in port.

Coroner Garfield Leaf ruled at a coroner's inquiry that the death was the result of heart failure.

Public Housing Criticized By Realtors' Leader, Here

"The public housing bill now before the U. S. Congress was not conceived to provide houses and slum clearance, and will not give houses to the 10,000,000 Americans now living on less than $2-$3 a year," Robert Gerholz, chairman of the realtors' Washington committee, told members of the Upper Michigan real estate association at a meeting last night.

"Public housing is political housing and favors those who vote right, etc.," he told the large number of realtors and bankers at the dinner meeting.

"If the public housing bill would provide houses and clear slums, I would be in favor of it. So would every real estate man," he stated. He urged that realtors remove the emotionalism, hysteria and GI baiting and take a real look at the housing problem.

Gerholz, former president of the National Home Builders association, declared that for the past 10 years, more publicity and criticism has been directed toward real estate men than any other business or profession. He cited the largeness of the government, and its discredit of big business and industry.

Praise FHA

"Nothing can be produced by enacting a law. Once the public housing bill would become law, a bureaucracy will grow up around it. There are 2,000,000 agencies, commissions and bureaus in Washington now, all trying to perpetuate themselves through work they do."

Gerholz declared that it would be better to raise the standard of living for those in the U. S. who are barely earning an existence, and either through relief or some other agency help them.

"The FHA has done a cooperative with financial backers and builders in getting houses for low income groups has done an exceptional job," Gerholz asserted. "Realtors and builders," he said, are eager too to provide housing, but not in competition with the government, or under bureaucratic control."

American Socialism

Citing that the U. S. government last year spent two and a half times more than the net profits of all corporations in the country, and six times as much as the total farm income in 1947 of 36 billion dollars, Gerholz declared that taxation has reached the saturation point.

"The hour is later than we think, and there is no doubt in my mind that an American form of socialism now exists. There can be no question about it. And the only way to halt it is by cutting off source of supply," real estate leader said.

Rent controls hamper investments in the building industry. Until they are removed no great amount of housing can be met, he told the assembled realtors. If wage and price controls had remained in effect, rent control would not be as objectionable, he said.

Gerholz noted that there has been a tapering of the economy in the past few months and said that it was a good thing, because buyers and investors will feel secure. There won't be any sharp drop, he said, because the trend of wages is still up.

Luxury Housing

"As long as railroad freights remain what they are and wages keep rising, there can be no appreciable decline in housing costs," he advised. "Managerial obsolescence has slowed business. A lot of us in this country have forgotten how to work since selling during the war was a matter of being able to deliver the goods and in the depression of not having the goods nor funds," he said.

The real estate leader said that banks are sounder now, agriculture is healthier and more people have savings than ever before.

"Prices are high because people have been loafing. I am not deriding organized labor," he said. "Rather, I would like to champion the laborers, but not their leaders. (In an aside remark, Gerholz commented that leadership in unions may change shortly, but did not enlarge on the topic.)"

Under the old U. S. Housing administration, 556,000 public houses were built, Gerholz stated.

These were paid for from taxes assessed on those who already had houses and property, and are not taxable in the community.

Power of Labor

The public housing bill before Congress proposes luxury housing if anything, Gerholz said. "For each room in a public house, $2500 will be allowed. A six-room house would thus come to $15,000."

Declaring that the future of real estate can only lie in one with the least amount of government interference and competition, Gerholz urged his listeners to keep America first for Americans, unlimited. He said that if the United States can carry a sick world on its back, surely we can solve our home problems.

"Government right now, whether we like it or not, is run by organized labor," he declared. "The American system of free enterprise means economic opportunity and security to everyone regardless of color and family background," Gerholz maintained.

Clarence Treadwell, vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, also spoke to U. P. realtors. He discussed business in real estate, and said it is still 15 per cent above normal. He touched briefly on the Washington situation, the dangers and impracticality of socialism, and government control.

Receive Certificates

Guests at the banquet included Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Perschbacher of Grand Rapids, president of the Michigan Real Estate association; Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Pointer of Saginaw, vice president of the association; E. G. Hacker and A. R. Saunders of Lansing, Clyde Bennett of Birmingham, Walter Neller of Lansing, E. J. Soop, director of University of Michigan extensions service, Charles Sill of the extension service, William Warmington of Escanaba, president of the Michigan Bankers association, and other banking and real estate leaders.

Certificates were presented by E. J. Soop and Charles Follo, supervisor of the U. of M. service in Upper Michigan, to real estate and banking men completing a U. of M. course in real estate law. The classes were taught in Marquette and Escanaba by Wheaton Strom, Escanaba attorney.

Those receiving certificates were Nicholas Chapekis, Earl B. Harris, Everett Cole, George McEwen, Roy C. Olson, Chester Isaacson, William Leiper, Kenneth Mallman, Arni Maki and John Stoll of Escanaba; Charles H. Burton, Clair Hoehn, Robert Hupp, Walter Olson, E. H. Noblet of Gladstone; Arni Johnson, Onni Johnson and Ahti Waak of Rock; Alphonse Peterson, Robert Washburn, William B. and Lenore Zerbe, Ingram Traxler, Hugh Wallace, Roy Froling, Eugene Keyler, David and Edward Pearce, Paul Osterberg, Samuel Oakley, and Earl Closser, of Marquette.

Earl Closser, chairman of the education committee of the U. P. Real Estate association, was toastmaster at the banquet. Ed Schmidt, Ann Arbor realtor, entertained with an impersonation of a young man from Europe who came to the U. S. to find out how the government could give away three million dollars with no strings attached.

TRI-STATE NAMED

The Delmarva peninsula lies between the Chesapeake and Delaware bays and derives its name from parts of the names of the three states—Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia—which control the area.

The word "barbarian" was first used by the Greeks to mean "foreigner" but it later came to mean a bad or savage person.

HE'S CRACKSHOT WITH SLINGSHOT

Ab Enlow Can Hit Rabbit In Eye At 35 Yards

By ROBERT C. RUARK
Evanville, Ind., June 24 — I have quit fretting over the fussing between the armed forces since I met Albert Enlow of Rockport, Ind. Mr. Enlow is just about all we need to win a war, and you don't have to fly him around in a B-36.

Mr. Enlow, or Ab, as he is called by his wife and neighbors, has a secret weapon. It is quiet, cheap, accurate and as deadly as cholera. Mr. Enlow distills his own radar, for its accuracy, and its ammunition can be plucked from any roadbed.

Mr. Enlow shoots the slingshot. He shoots it better than anybody else in the world, I guess, since he has been practicing for 45 years, or ever since he was four.

Plenty of Power

In case my benighted city constituents do not know what a slingshot, I shall describe it. Two long bands of rubber are attached either to a forked stick or to the thumb and forefinger, by loops. The other ends of the rubber are joined to a pouch, or cradle, of soft leather. A small stone, bullet, ball, or bearing is placed in the pouch. The arm is extended, the rubber drawn taut, and the pouch released. The missile travels with great speed in the direction of its target. Most people cannot hit a bull in the brisquet with a slingshot.

Ab Enlow can. He not only can hit a bull in the brisquet, but he can knock the eye out of a rabbit at 35 yards. He can kill a running squirrel, a flying bird, a slithering snake or a man, for that matter. He can knock off a row of bottle tops at 25 yards, smash flashbulbs thrown into the air, bust medicine bottles, and extinguish cigars held in people's mouths.

Mr. Enlow is a thin, shambling man who wears a cap, a three-day beard and over-halls. He hunts some, and fishes some, and traps some. He's got about nine hound-dawgs, and he plays the French harp, or mouth-organ, on Saturday nights. He is 49 years old, and a little snaggle-toothed.

"I don't hardly know whether I can hit nothing with it anytime," says Mr. Enlow, producing his secret weapon. "Maybe if I tried hard I could hit that little bitty ol' bottle over there"—pointing to a two inch vial half buried in the grass.

With one motion he loaded, stretched his sling and shot, without looking at the target. The bottle smashed.

Practiced for Hours

"If that had of been a rabbit, by Jack," said Charlie Ackerson, 50-ish, who was looking on, "that there rabbit would of been a dead rabbit, by Jack. That Ab, he can kill more rabbits with his slingshot than the average man can kill with a scatter-gun."

"The reason Ab's so good," Mr. Ackerson continued, temporarily blinding a lizard with a spout of amber tobacco juice, "is he was so pore when he was little he just couldn't afford no gun. He used to steal slingshot rubbers from his brother, and practice 'till he could salivate a gnat at 20 yards."

"You can't get no decent rubber nowadays," Mr. Enlow complained bitterly. "These here are prewar. I wouldn't give a nickel for this here synthetic rubber."

Although the biggest thing he ever killed with his slingshot was a coon, Mr. Enlow says he could kill a man as easy as nothing at all. He set up a box, with half-inch thick sides. He took a small steel ball bearing from his pocket. He drew his sling carelessly, and let fly. The bearing went all the way through the half-inch wood, leaving a neat round hole as big as a .45 slug would make.

He retrieved his bearing. Without sighting, he fired again—and the bearing traveled clean through the original hole, busting out the other side of the box.

Mr. Enlow says that the advantage of the slingshot, over all other weapons, is that a fellow can stow it in his pocket and thereby keep his hands warm in the winter time.

"Feller gets mighty cold, toting a gun," he says, wheeling to shoot a bottle out of Charlie's hands. "Next time you come, I'll wear clean over-halls and shave. Maybe by then I'll be in practice."

Schoolcraft County Wins Jail Case

THE decision of Circuit Judge Herbert Rannels authorizing Schoolcraft county to continue use of its jail, provided certain extreme fire hazards are eliminated by September 1, constitutes a decided break for Schoolcraft county finances.

A major fire hazard will be eliminated by removing the furnace and heating the jail from the furnace of the nearby courthouse building. The court further stipulated that hazardous electric wiring must be replaced.

The Schoolcraft jail is a wood frame building that has been in use for many years. Undoubtedly it would be better if the county could replace the jail with a modern, fireproof building but finances of Schoolcraft county, like the finances of many other counties in the Upper Peninsula, are in straitened circumstances. The county just does not have the money at this time to construct a brand new jail. Neither can the county afford to pay the cost of transporting and lodging its prisoners elsewhere.

The action of the circuit judge in refusing the petitions of the state police commissioner and the commissioner of corrections to close the jail appears to be a reasonable decision.

The county is put on notice that it cannot indefinitely delay the construction of a new jail; it is further ordered to reduce the fire hazards to a minimum. But it is also permitted to continue the use of a jail until such time when it can more adequately cope with the problem of financing a new structure.

It is to be noted that Delta county likewise was informed of the inadequacy of its jail, with the threat of closure by the corrections commission. In the case of Delta county, however, the state officials did not proceed with a petition in circuit court to force closure and apparently is satisfied that Delta county is doing all that it can to remedy deficiencies. The problem was not so serious in this county as in Schoolcraft, however, as Delta county's jail, while not modern, is comparatively fireproof.

More Finds Of Canadian Iron

SIR JAMES DUNN, president of the Algoma Steel Corporation at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, has announced the finding of another large iron ore deposit on the company's lands at Wawa Lake, north of Sault Ste. Marie.

The occurrence is a lens of siderite 1,750 feet long and about 200 wide. It carries about the same grade of ore as the nearby Helen Mine, which is now producing at the rate of 1,500,000 tons a year. The Helen ore is sintered, with a shrinkage of about one-third in volume, and the demand for the beneficiated product far exceeds the supply, which is largely shipped by lake freighters to various American steel mills for mixing purposes.

The new location is near the Algoma Central railway, and it will lend itself readily to open pit mining. The land has been in possession of the company for about 50 years, but was never prospected or drilled until recently. Tentative plans are to have an initial annual production of 500,000 tons of sinter at that point.

Algoma Steel also has a very large body of low grade magnetite at Goulais River, Ontario, near Lake Superior. Its engineering staff estimates that about one billion tons of ore are located at Goulais. Eventually, sinter from Goulais magnetite, mixed with Helen and Wawa beneficiated ore, should provide an exceptional blast furnace feed. It is possible to make a sinter running 64 per cent iron from the Goulais ore, according to recent tests.

These finds, together with those at Steep Rock, north of Fort William, and the immense new strikes on the Labrador-Quebec line, seem to insure the high place of Canada in the iron mining world, and the building of other steel plants at strategic points in the Dominion.

Taft Is Victor In Labor Law Test

A PROPOSAL for governmental seizure of struck plants in national emergency labor disputes was rejected by the senate Wednesday by the significant vote of 55 to 27.

The government seizure plan was offered by Senators Douglas and Aiken as an alternative to the injunction provisions in the Taft-Hartley labor act. Senator Taft led the fight against the Douglas-Aiken proposal. The margin by which the government seizure plan was rejected may provide a pretty fair indication of what the senate may be expected to do about the pending labor legislation.

The house wrestled with the labor problem earlier this session and was unable to reach any agreement on repeal of the T-H law or for an acceptable replacement. Now the senate is trying to write its own version of a new labor law.

Fear Political Atomic Control

By MARQUIS CHILDS

New York.—The political decisions taken in Washington tend to seem more politically motivated when viewed from a little way off. A case in point is the extraordinary development in the investigation into the atomic energy commission.

The investigation had proved to be a pretty empty business. Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, who initiated it with reckless general charges, was reduced to scratching up trivialities. It had dropped into the back pages of even those newspapers interested in smearing the civilian commission and chairman David Lilienthal in particular.

In the face of all this Sen. Brien McMahon, chairman of the joint Senate-House committee on atomic energy, comes out with the proposal that his committee have the veto power over the supposedly independent commission. They would exercise this veto power by passing on any enterprise involving the expenditure of more than $1,000,000.

That is, in effect, a finding of guilty against Lilienthal. If Hickenlooper had been shrewd, he would have said, "Gentlemen, I see that I have made my case and I have nothing more to say."

—POLITICAL CONTROL—

The full implications of that veto have not been fully appreciated. I doubt that even Senator McMahon, who has battled for civilian control, is entirely aware of what such a veto would mean.

It would put the atom right in the middle of politics. That is not my view alone. It is the view of those who have had most to do with the control of atomic energy at the international level.

Prophecy, as some recent events have shown, is a dangerous undertaking in matters political. But, in my opinion, if Congress takes up McMahon's suggesting and approves this veto power, the following would happen:

1. Lilienthal would resign as chairman of the atomic energy commission and the strong probability is that two or three other commissioners would leave.

2. President Truman would find it difficult, if not impossible, to persuade a civilian of stature to take the vacated chairmanship.

The crowd out of "get Lilienthal" might rejoice at this outcome. But I believe their rejoicing would be very temporary. Political control exercised through such a veto would inevitably retard atomic development. Those who know say that under such circumstances the United States very quickly would lose its present lead.

Pressure groups working through the Senate-House committee would interfere in every decision taken by the commission. This is not just theory. A recent example shows how such pressures are brought to bear and what the consequences are.

The atomic energy commission had decided to build a natural-gas pipe line to the Great Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic project. The decision had been taken after weighing all the factors—cost, accessibility of supply, security and dependability of the fuel supply. The best technical brains available had passed on it.

But then certain pressure groups began to turn on the heat. The railroads, the coal miners, the coal mine owners all came down on the Congressional committee. They didn't want a gas pipeline to Oak Ridge; they wanted coal used at Oak Ridge.

The joint Senate-House committee named a subcommittee to look into the proposed pipe line. That subcommittee disapproved it and was supported by the full committee.

—NO ORDERLY OPERATION—

Nevertheless the AEC is going ahead with the pipeline. One reason is the fact that the commission has what is believed to be an irrevocable contract with the company that would build the line and furnish the gas.

If that kind of interference is possible, and it would be possible under the veto advocated by McMahon, then there could be no orderly operation of the vast atomic energy project with its billion dollar budget. Politics would dictate vital decisions.

Senator McMahon, who has in the past shown such a sense of responsibility, would not be likely to say, "look, why doesn't my state of Connecticut get more of these atomic plants; we need them up there." But politicians with less understanding of what is at issue might well say just that.

An independent commission is bound to make mistakes in an undertaking so large. But if able and good men are chosen, they must be allowed to make their own mistakes, since their independence and their ability will insure a satisfactory overall result. A political veto would nullify their independence and circumvent their ability.

A. People is a plural noun; but it can also be pluralized by adding "s" in speaking of more than one people. Thus we say, the people of France; but when we use the word in the meaning of two or more different races, it is correct to use the form peoples, as: The peoples of France, Belgium, and Spain. The Czechoslovakian nation comprises both Slavic and Germanic peoples.

San Bernardino: In our school we are taught to pronounce the words herbivorous and carnivorous with the accent on the third syllable, as, her-bi-OR-us, and car-ni-VOR-us. Is that correct?—A. R.

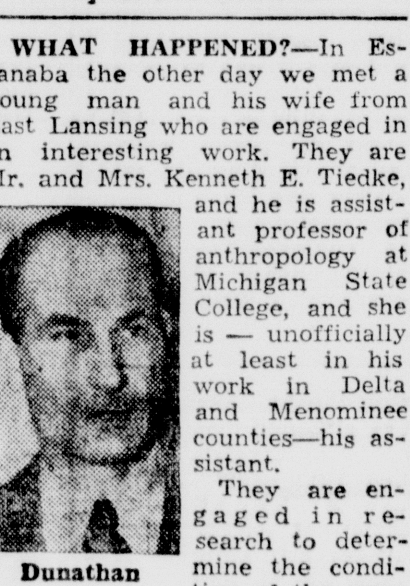

A. Sorry, no. All such words as carnivorous, herbivorous, etc., take the accent on the second syllable, thus: kahr-NIV-uh-russ, her-BIV-uh-russ.

'Hey! Wanna Lift, Mister?'

Good Evening By Clint Dunathan

WHAT HAPPENED?—In Escanaba the other day we met a young man and his wife from East Lansing who are engaged in an interesting work. They are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Tiedke, and he is assistant professor of anthropology at Michigan State College, and she is — unofficially at least in his work in Delta and Menominee counties — his assistant.

They are engaged in research to determine the condition of the remnants of the American Indian still living in this area. They want to know how the Indian has changed and is changing through his contact with the whites, what the attitude of the Indian is toward the whites — and that of the whites to the Indian.

The research is being done through the social research service of MSC in combination with the agricultural experiment station, and the big question is: What has happened to the Indian since the arrival of white men?

ANTHROPOLOGIST — If you are as we are, your opinion of an anthropologist is that he is a white-whiskered old chap who wears bi-focals and an air of pre-occupation. We thought so too, until we met Ken Tiedke. He is youngish with a good crop of hair on the top of his head and none on his chin.

Anthropology is the science of the study of man and includes a number of branches. Currently in his Indian research Tiedke wants to know (or rather the social research section of MSC wants to know) more about the environmental and social relations of the Indians in this area. The study is being made for a purpose that has not yet been revealed to the researchers. Perhaps some program of rehabilitation is in the offing.

VISITOR—Ken and his wife will visit the small band of Indians near Harris as part of their study. This settlement of Pottowatami has been a problem for law enforcement officers of Menominee and Delta counties for several years.

On the day that we talked with Tiedke, newspapers carried the story of the Indian woman who was slashed by an Indian man, and the man was hacked in the back with an ax wielded by the woman's nine-year-old daughter.

Whether the anthropologist and his wife will go there in company with local officials, or will make their visit unaccompanied, they have not decided. They have found, they said, that the Indians are more friendly and confiding if they go to a settlement or reservation alone. A year or so ago they spent considerable time at a reservation in the West. Because they sought the story of the Indian from the Indian himself, rather than obtain it second-hand from white officials, they were successful.

"We found the Indians were good neighbors. We liked them and they liked us," said Mrs. Tiedke.

WHAT TO DO—The Tiedkes' sole objective is to gather and assemble information. They are researchers, not reformers. Should there be some local or state (perhaps a joint local-state-federal) program to assist the Indian if

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Escanaba—Dr. C. J. Corcoran was elected president of the Upper Peninsula Dental Society at the twenty-fifth annual meeting at the Escanaba Elks club.

Escanaba—Fred Anutta has arrived from Ft. Logan, Colorado to spend the summer here.

Gladstone—Miss Norma Johnson has left for Ann Arbor where she will enroll at the University of Michigan for the summer session.

Gladstone — Mrs. Violet La Lande and Elmer Closs reported a catch of twenty-five trout on Thursday in a neighboring stream.

Manistique—Miss Jessie Barton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Barton is spending six weeks at the summer school at Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Twenty Years Ago

Gladstone—Miss Hilda Swenson arrived today from Gary, Ind., where she teaches to spend the summer months at her home.

Gladstone—Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Seger left Sunday for Marquette where they will attend the summer session of Northern State Teachers' college.

Manistique — Jack Nussbaum and Sig Bergland left today for Oshkosh where they will be guests for several days at the home of Jack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Nussbaum.

Escanaba—Miss Alma Judson was operated on for removal of appendix at St. Francis hospital recently.

can turn to the data obtained by the Tiedkes and find there the necessary background information.

That something should be done to break down the present economic and social barriers that separate the white and the Indian seems apparent. So far all that has been done by the Indian is to withdraw, so far as possible; while the whites have offered little encouragement and expressed little concern over the problem of assimilating them into a white society.

LAWLESS—It is impossible for the Indians remaining in Delta and Menominee counties to escape into their woodland hunting and fishing culture of the past. Today they live separate from, yet are a part of white civilization. They are either too close to the whites, or not close enough to them.

Because of this in-between status, the Indian is exposed to the white element that can do him the most harm. White men visit Indian women, bringing whisky and venereal disease. At a meeting in Menominee early in the spring of 1948 a former prospector of that county told Indian men at the conference to "gang up on these white men and throw them out."

ONE HUNDRED YEARS—We have never heard of that being done at Harris and we doubt that it will be done by the Indians there.

Relations between the white and the Indian have, with rare exceptions, been bad. For more than one hundred years the Indian has, in the majority, been the recipient of a dose designed to foster dependence and destroy initiative. The effectiveness of that federal program is evident today in Delta and Menominee counties.

The solution to the problem, if there is one, must come from the local community. It must be backed by people with a sincere desire to understand the Indian and to help improve the Indian situation.

Plenty Of Drinking

Dear Editor:

I was glad to see some one changed the subject last week and brought up Teen Age drinking.

Yes that is one of Escanaba's big problems and no doubt parents are to blame up to a certain point. But who can we blame for the grown up's excessive drinking. When a man can go in any bar in Escanaba and buy drinks until he can lean on the bar. (They seem to be good for holding things up) as long as he can put his hand in the pocket for the money and raise his hand to drink he is never out no matter how long he is out on his feet. Then he can go out (stagger) drive his car home. This happens all the time in Escanaba. Who cares if he gets home or not all the tavern keeper wants is that almighty dollar that is all that seems to count now days. There used to be a saying, never push a man down try and help him up, but not any more for the people that have that weakness no one seems to care any more. The law says you can't sell a man a drink if he is drunk. I ask you? "When is he drunk" it seems not until he is laying in an alley some where.

No my dear friends we have plenty of drinking problems in Escanaba for a town of its size it is the worst in the country. Why don't some of you people who's job is to enforce the laws wake up.

They sell to minors, sell after closing hours, sell Sunday before it is time to open up what more do you want them to do, all we can do is pay taxes and sit back and see the young and old going to the dogs if you will pardon my expression.

Signed, "Anxious."

Beautiful Park
Dear Editor:

Central Methodist church and Sunday School take this means of expressing their keen appreciation to the City Manager of Escanaba and to the Ludington Park personnel for their kind cooperation in making our annual outing a pleasant and successful enterprise. We appreciate the effort to provide the necessary tables and other equipment which made it possible for both old and young people to enjoy themselves. It was our first visit as a group to Ludington Park and the consensus was that no better or more beautiful place could have been chosen.

As a suggestion, not a criticism, the park would be made more suitable for group picnics if a gas plate were installed. A pay meter could also be installed so that parties using the gas would pay for the use of it.

Karl J. Hammar, Pastor
Central Methodist Church.

So They Say

The greatest demand in the country today is for rentals costing between $40 and $80 a month. We're getting absolutely zero of these. If we could get rentals down to $15 a room for new construction, we could end rent controls in a year.—Federal Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods.

We shall not barter away successes for the sake of promises which might again prove to be illusory, as they have so often in the past.—Secretary of State Dean Acheson, warning against over-optimism on the Big Four conference.

More and more people nowadays are doing without things their parents never had.

Banks in England employ nearly 15,000 women, but who would dare accuse them all of being tellers?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington.—G. O. P. Representative Jesse Wolcott of Michigan, who leads the House fight against the public housing bill, would like to forget all about it, but he once strongly espoused what he now opposes.

Back in August, 1937, Congressman Wolcott was an outspoken champion of the Wagner-Steagall Housing Act, which also provided for slum clearance and low-cost public housing—the same program which the Michigan Republican now calls "Socialistic."

During the 1937 debate Wolcott declared: "I believe that the need for decent, respectable and sanitary housing for the underprivileged has been proved beyond the peradventure of a doubt."

In fact, Wolcott was so concerned about the need for adequate public housing and slum clearance in 1937 that he urged colleagues who were opposed to the bill to go home and "read the Bible" before casting their votes.

—LIFTING LITTLE IRON CURTAIN—

Debated backstage during the closing days of the Paris conference was a point which may revolutionize U. S. policy toward Iron Curtain countries. It was: Should the U. S. A. create a "little Marshall Plan" for the satellite countries?

Two schools of thought exist among American diplomats. Both agree that Europe badly needs East-West trade and that the German Ruhr must have markets in Bulgaria, Hungary, Roumania and other satellite countries.

However, one diplomatic school opposes economic aid to any Iron Curtain country. Such aid, it is argued, is only an indirect way of helping Russia.

The other school argues that aid to Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary etc. would win over the people of these countries—already resentful of Soviet rule. This group is prepared to take the calculated risk of helping Russia in order to persuade the satellites to break away from Russia.

However, it was economic unrest inside Yugoslavia that helped induce Tito to pull up his Iron Curtain. Therefore the No. 1 school argues that our best policy is to let the satellites stew in their own economic juice until they really realize how tough life behind the Iron Curtain is.

—PERLE'S PARTIES—

Mrs. Perle Mesta, ex-Republican oil heiress from Oklahoma whose loyalty to Harry Truman has made her U. S. minister to Luxembourg, threw a party for defense secretary Louis Johnson the other day. But the guest list looked as if Mrs. Mesta was specializing on Pan American Airways.

It included Sam Pryor, G. O. P. national committeeman for Connecticut and vice president of Pan American; Ben Sonnenberg, astute public relations counsel for Pan Am, and Senator Brewster of Maine, considered Pan Am's best senatorial friend. Louie Johnson, himself, of course, used to be counsel for Pan American, which has received more favors from Uncle Sam than any other airline in history.

After the party was over one guest said it reminded him of the late Louis Wiley's remark after being kissed and decorated by Marshal Foch. "It wasn't the most thrilling kiss I ever had," said the late business manager of the New York Times, "but I guess it was the most important."

NOTE—Mrs. Mesta is now reading books on the steel industry. For Luxembourg, her new post, is the center of the European steel cartel.

—HE WHO LAUGHS LAST—

Oregon's wrathful Republican Wayne Morse has served notice that he will block every bill chairman Millard Tydings of Maryland tries to streamroller through the Senate armed services committee.

Morse issued his warning privately after rowing with Tydings publicly over whether the navy should report to Congress its disposal of surplus property. This is now required by law, but Tydings wants to repeal the law and let the navy dispose of property without any public report. Morse objected on the ground that Congress should not give up its checks on the military. But in committee Tydings overruled him.

However, the Oregon Senator is going to have the last laugh. For he can block most of Tydings' bills on the Senate floor, and he has served notice that he will do so—whenever the chairman tries to jam legislation down the throats of committee members without a fair vote.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Most of the Pennsylvania Democrats in Congress are planning to descend on Secretary of Defense Johnson to demand the ousting of Paul Griffith, former commander of the American Legion, from the defense department. Those who know Griffith and his chair-warming activities, agree with the Congressmen. Some wives of the generals and admirals who make up the joint chiefs of staff refer to their husbands as the "stiff joints."... Rootin'-Tootin' Congressman John Rankin of Mississippi has really dug into the history books to sound the alarm about spies. Warning the Congress about Communism, Rankin recalled that Benjamin Franklin's secretary, a subversive named Bancroft, had slipped government secrets to the British during the Revolutionary War.

Jack McCloy, now U. S. governor of Germany, was picked and virtually appointed by Secretary of State Acheson. They will work well together. General Harry Vaughan, the president's military aide, is now sniping at Defense Secretary Johnson—despite the fact that he, Vaughan, urged Johnson's appointment.

More and more people nowadays are doing without things their parents never had.

Banks in England employ nearly 15,000 women, but who would dare accuse them all of being tellers?

DeGarmo-Pepin

Miss Thelma Ilene DeGarmo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeGarmo of Trenary, exchanged marriage vows with Donald J. Pepin, son of the John B. Pepins of 826 North 19th street, Escanaba, in a ceremony performed by Rev. Arnold E. Thompson at the Catherine Bonifas Residence Wednesday morning, June 22, at 9 o'clock.

The bride wore ivory satin, her gown styled with a button-back fitted bodice, drop shoulder yoke of marquisette outlined with a lace-edged ruffle and a full skirt ending in a court train. Her fingertip veil of marquisette was caught to a bonnet of ruffled net. As her jewelry she wore a gold lavalier and a mother-of-pearl heirloom pin, the gift of her mother, and she carried white lilies and snapdragons. Miss Therese Pepin, maid of honor, wore pink taffeta, and Mrs. Ruth Balko, bridesmaid, wore yellow taffeta, the gowns made with snug bodices and full skirts. They wore matching headresses and carried bouquets of carnations.

Mrs. DeGarmo wore a pink print and Mrs. Pepin wore navy and pink.

Lester Pepin was best man and William Balko, groomsmen.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Pepin residence and a dinner for 25 guests at the Chicken Shack. Cut flowers of pink and blue were used in the decorations.

The couple will live in Escanaba. The bride, a graduate of Trenary high school, formerly was a nurse's aide at St. Francis hospital. Her husband is employed by the Birds Eye Veneer Co.

Wedding guests included Mrs. Charles DeGarmo of Trenary, Mr. and Mrs. William Balko of Munising and Ed Shannon of Lansing.

Mammoth Marrow On Menu For Today

By HAL BOYLE
New York (P)—Tired of eating the same old things? Want a new flavor thrill?

Then why not try some tasty marrow from a woolly mammoth aged for 10,000 years in nature's northern icebox? You'll never forget it.

Charles R. Knight has remembered the sensation for 25 years. He is an artist famous for his pioneering paintings of prehistoric life.

"About a quarter of a century ago the American museum of natural history got some bones and flesh from a woolly mammoth, trapped in the Alaskan ice perhaps 10,000 years before," he recalled.

Boyle

"We were curious as to what it would taste like, so we tried some of the marrow. It tasted exactly like rancid grease."

Nobody asked for a second helping.

All the world's a graveyard to this 74-year-old artist, who perhaps as much as any one man has helped the past come alive. Since 1894 he has specialized in painting prehistoric men and animals, and he was the first to do so scientifically—based on reconstructed fossils.

His large-scale murals hang in history museums across the country, and his work was collected by such nature lovers as the late J. P. Morgan, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, and historian Charles A. Beard. His fifth book, "Prehistoric Man," soon will be published.

His 55-year study of the earth as it was in the days of the dinosaurs has convinced him modern man doesn't have too much to brag about.

"Ancient man has existed for perhaps a million years," said Knight, "but he didn't assume his present manlike shape until the cro-magnon man of Europe, some 30,000 years ago."

Spiritual Side Neglected
"And the cro-Magnon was just as good a man as we are, mentally and physically. The cro-magnons averaged 5 feet 9 inches tall, but some were 6 feet 3 or 4 inches. You could bring a cro-magnon man to New York City today and after you had shown him a few wonders, he'd be able to get along all right."

He'd be able to appreciate television as well as the next cliff dweller.

Knight is convinced that mankind's biggest defeat is his failure to develop spiritually.

"With all our advantages we haven't advanced spiritually, as we can and should and must," he said, "I don't think that spiritually we are better than cro-magnon."

"Confucius, Christ, Mohammed—these and other messiahs have told us a thousand times what to do. We know what to do—but we don't do it."

"Knight thinks there is little use for man to trust that nature will bail him out of the trouble he is getting himself into."

"He will destroy himself unless he returns to more spiritual ways. He's a goner."

ate for safe year-round use.

Other recommendations in the Action Program include the elimination of railway-highway grade crossings on priorities determined on the basis of hazard and economy of operation. Adequate protection should be provided where grade-separation structures are not feasible.

Highways to be safe for year-round travel are best if they have skid-resistant surfaces, smooth, usable shoulders and adequate drainage. With highways used by pedestrians, sidewalks are desirable. Highway lighting is a safety measure on main urban streets and on the more hazardous sections of rural traffic routes.

Washington—Continued improvement in motor vehicle brakes, headlights, driver vision, directional signals, tires, wheel rims and bumpers was urged by the President's Highway Safety Conference here. These items are essential in highway safety, the preliminary Action Program of the conference stated.

Wanted also is the modernization of principal streets and highways. To them should be applied the standards, policies and guides developed by the American Association of State Highway Officials, the U. S. Public Roads Administration and other appropriate agencies. VETERANS TEST MILK—Four veterans enrolled in the Powers-Spalding on-the-farm veteran training project are turning their training into highly practical work. Each month they meet with Samuel Hannon, their instructor, and run off tests on soil and milk from their own farms. The veteran training program for farmers was inaugurated in the Powers-Spalding area two years ago July 6. Left to right above, testing milk are Richard Watruba of Wilson, Orville Charlier of Carney and Arvin Polfus of Carney. John Marsicek of Wilson is not pictured with the veterans here, but also utilizes his training by testing soil and milk monthly.

Marked Lake Trout Taken By Fishermen

Lansing (P)—Fin-clipped lake trout are being taken from Lake Michigan by commercial fishermen in increasing numbers, the conservation department reported.

A total of 274 fin scars from the marked fish have been returned for a $2 reward each so far this year. This compares with 266 returned in all of last year and 78 in 1947.

The clipped fish were planted in 1944, 1945, and 1946. Purpose of the reward program is to gather data on the value of planting lake trout and on the growth rate of the species. The program is not feasible.

Sing Sing Prisoner Gambles With Life For Medical Tests

Ossining, N. Y., (P)—By gambling with his life, a Sing Sing prisoner has helped write recent medical history.

Even today, doctors are waiting to see if he will live or die as a result of the latest experiment for which he volunteered.

The dramatic role that 49-year-old Louis Boy has played in major medical tests was detailed yesterday for the first time.

Some of his deeds had been told previously, but he had remained anonymous. And authorities had not disclosed that the same man had figured in several tests—any of which might have killed him.

Boy is serving a life term for his part in the 1931 murder of a garage cashier during a New York City holdup. He was convicted with two other men.

In 1942, the government was testing atabrine as a weapon against malaria. To determine if the drug was poisonous, Boy volunteered to take it. It didn't hurt him. Later, millions of American service men in the war used the drug to stave off malaria.

In 1943, a "guinea pig" was needed on which to test a new influenza vaccine developed by the Rockefeller institute. Boy again volunteered, and escaped possible death.

Several weeks ago, in a last-ditch attempt by doctors to save the life of a small girl dying of leukemia, Boy submitted to a blood exchange during which he took a quantity of the child's infected blood into his own body.

The girl later died. Doctors say Boy seems all right, but it may be months before they know if he will survive.

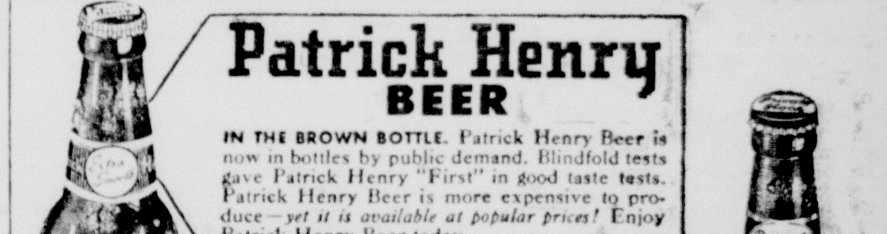

The first centralized industry was in New Amsterdam, on Manhattan, where handmade glassware was manufactured continuously from 1645 to 1767.

Reo Unveils New Powerful Engine
For Heavy Hauls

Lansing (AP)—A new truck engine, which cost more than $5,000,000 to develop, was given its pre-public showing by Reo Motors, Inc., here Tuesday.
The company claims the new Reo gold comet engine is capable of producing more horsepower than any truck gasoline engine of its size. Engineers said the unit was designed for heavy-duty, high-speed service and to provide more speed and power with greater fuel economy, greater endurance and easier maintenance.
Exact specifications and other engineering details of the 140 horsepower engine are being withheld until sales procedures are completed. Public showing of the engine, which will come in three sizes, is expected some time in July.
The company expects to be in full production by this fall. Announcement is expected within a few days of the signing of a $31,000,000 contract with the army to provide trucks powered with the heaviest of the three models of the new engine.
"The Reo gold comet engine was built after we agreed that only by manufacturing completely new engines could the truck industry hope to keep pace with modern highway transportation," said J. S. Sherry, jr., company president.
"Warmed-over versions of truck engines that are basically 20 or 30 years old can not satisfy the demands of truck operators."

Bates Law Repeal
Doesn't Bind Cities
To 15-Mill Limits

Lansing (AP)—The inadvertent repeal of the Bates law by the 1949 legislature did not put 11 home rule cities back under the 15-mill tax limitation, attorney general Stephen J. Roth has ruled.
Roth ruled formally in line with an oral opinion previously expressed by assistant attorney general G. Douglas Clapperton when it was discovered that the legislature had repealed the Bates law.
The Bates law of 1948 took home rule cities out from under the 15-mill limitation and allowed them to levy an additional 10 mills of taxes. Its effect was to let other units of government share the 15 mills.
Roth held that repeal of the Bates law "did not reinstate pre-existing charter provisions binding so-called 15-mill cities to the constitutional 15-mill limitation."

AWAIT ARRIVAL OF NEW TRUCK

Garbage Collection Will Be Started Soon

Collection of garbage and refuse on a regular and city-wide scale will get underway as soon as a new truck with specially designed body is received by Joe Larson, city, who has entered into a contract with the city to do the work.
A five-year contract has been entered into between the City of Gladstone and Mr. Larson with the annual payment set at $9,000.00.
With the awarding of the contract the new equipment was ordered and the collection will begin with its arrival which will be early in July or sooner.

The equipment being acquired is a Colecto-Pak, a special garbage and collection unit which has fast loading equipment and which keeps the garbage out of sight and smell.
An automatic hydraulic-operated packer plate eliminates void spaces in the body by compressing the material down toward the discharge end.

Heil engineers collaborating with nationally recognized health and sanitation authorities designed the completely enclosed unit which eliminates the unsightly nuisance of ordinary open body collection.

Forester's Truck

Carl Makel, conservation department forester, while working with a crew of men in a wooded area west of here Tuesday, chanced to see a woodchuck crawl beneath his truck parked along the trail nearby. Investigating further, he found that it had crawled into a narrow opening just ahead of the right rear spring. Efforts to dislodge it were of no avail and after poking at it with a stick, he went back to work and thought no more of it.

Late that night he heard a cat yowling in his garage and then heard a most peculiar whistling noise. He investigated and found that Mr. Woodchuck was still in his newly acquired quarters.

Makel drove off to the woods the next day, thinking that the animal would get hungry and leave, but when he returned that evening, it was still there. His dog got all excited and tried to scare it out, but all Prince got for his efforts was a bitten tongue. Makel turned the garden hose on the animal, but it hung tough.

Thursday morning Makel drove the truck to the McNamara Service station and ordered a greasing job, instructing Francis McNamara to pay particular attention to the rear right spring. Very businesslike, McNamara complied, but a moment later—just at a time when there seemed to be more loiterers about than usual—he beat a hasty and somewhat panicked retreat. The woodchuck, it seems, insisted on privacy.

The animal was finally driven out with an air compressor and then forced out of the building with brooms and shovels. It disappeared up the alley.

A business man under constant pressure or a housewife with endless routine tasks and family troubles will develop asthma if the susceptibility exists in these people, Dr. Rackemann told the doctors.

Fear of the asthma is another emotional aspect of the disease which the doctor should consider. Dr. Rackemann recommends that patients should be taught how to control their symptoms and stress should be laid on their individual needs rather than on the disease. He said that deaths have resulted from acute attacks of the disease which apparently were produced

Marenger, DeLaire Hurt In Cornell Plane Crash

The injured are Fred Marenger, 49, of Flat Rock, and Robert DeLaire, 24, Hiawatha hotel, Escanaba. They both received facial and other lacerations and possible internal injuries and suffered from shock. Marenger also complained of an injury to his back.

Today in St. Francis hospital their condition was reported "good."

Legislature Cuts College Budgets

ity from overriding any of Governor Williams' vetoes and the only other flash of interest in the sine die adjournment session was the legislature's passage of a bill reviving the 1948 Bates law, which was repealed inadvertently a month ago.

The law took home rule cities out from under the 15-mill tax limitation and allowed them to levy an additional 10 mills for city purposes.

The bill fixing the legislature's error swept through the senate by a 2 to 29 vote, with Senators Perry W. Greene (R-Grand Rapids) and Garland B. Lane (D-Flint) voting against it. There was no debate.

In the House, two unsuccessful attempts were made to amend the Bates measure. Rep. Louis C. Cramton (R-Lapeer) sought to validate tax increasing elections held before the reinstatement takes effect Sept. 23.

Other members convinced him the move was unnecessary. Rep. Howard R. Estes (R-Oakman) tried to attach a bill which had previously been defeated in the senate. The measure would have permitted local units to take property of the Hudson-Clinton metropolitan authority at half the average rate before it was bought by the authority.

House leaders spoke against the amendment because they feared a time-consuming squabble with the Senate over it. The educational appropriation bill contained these other compromise grants to state colleges:

Michigan College of Mining and Technology — $1,203,872, which was $7,704 more than the House had been willing to grant earlier. The college received $1,129,894 this year.

Sault Ste. Marie Branch—$337,095, unchanged from the earlier bill. It received $322,168.

Central Michigan College of Education—$1,183,404, an increase of $18,316 over the amount previously allowed by the House. The school had received $1,086,099 this year.

Michigan State Normal College — $1,452,373, $25,340 more than the House had allowed earlier. It received $1,291,192 this year.

Northern Michigan College of Education—$602,740, $10,315 more than the House allowed. It received $526,890 this year.

Western Michigan College of Education — $1,851,988, $40,858 more than the House allowed earlier. It received $1,685,305 this year.

Blind School—$407,043, unchanged, compared to $355,958 this year; Deaf school $682,798, unchanged, compared to $571,237 this year.

Senator George N. Higgins (R-Ferndale), whose district embraces the University of Michigan and who was one of the conferees, told the Senate "I feel we are short-changing the University, but we got the best we could. I feel sure the University will have to operate at a deficit and that we will have to take care of that when we come back. They are losing their top men to other states and I hope they don't lose too many before we wake up in the House and Senate."

Senator Bruce F. Ciochier (R-North Branch) declared "it's too bad our institutions have to suffer for no logical reason." The Senate confirmed Williams' appointment of Spalding Friedrich, Traverse City business man, to the state mental health commission.

PARTY LINES SOLID
Lansing, June 24 (AP)—Most House Democrats heeded the call of party loyalty to block four attempts to override gubernatorial vetoes as the Legislature wound up its 1949 session yesterday.

Two other vetoes were sustained in the Senate and never got to the House, while two of the vetoes sustained by the steadfast House Democrats had been overridden in the Senate.

Measures passing in the Senate and beaten in the House would have: Levied a $1 a gallon tax on out of state wines. Forbidden purchases of real estate by state departments and institutions without a specific appropriation for the purchase by the legislature.

Measures beaten by the House alone would have: Permitted lowering of deep trap nets by commercial fishermen in Lake Huron to 100 feet.

Diverted one fourth of the oil

The light airplane, piloted by Marenger, crashed as he attempted to land in a field on the farm of his brother, Eugene Marenger, on County Road 416 in Escanaba township, about four miles south of Cornell. The time of the accident was established by the stopping of a watch worn by one of the men, state police reported.

Eugene Marenger, who was a witness to the accident as was Anthony Miron, who resides on a nearby farm, along with Norman Marenger, son of Gene, hurried to the scene, helped remove the injured men from the wrecked craft and took them to St. Francis hospital.

The extent of their injuries was not immediately determined but they were so badly hurt that it was impossible for officers to question them last night about the crash.

Eugene Marenger, however, told Michigan state police, who investigated the accident, that his brother had told him that he planned on landing on the farm field as he has done before, but that the grass looked too high and as he attempted to get back into the air he was unable to do so and the ship struck.

There was no fire. Inspection of the craft showed that the throttle was closed and the ignition shut off. This presence of mind on the part of Marenger probably saved the lives of the two men, for gasoline soaked the ground where the craft came to rest.

The plane apparently struck a rock pile in a field of the Eugene Miron farm adjoining Marenger's on a wing tip and spun around several times before stopping some 150 feet away. The craft, a two place Tailorcraft powered with 65 horsepower motor, is a total wreck.

Marenger has been flying for many years, has a private pilot's license and has logged about 350 hours in the air. He has had several plane accidents before but none believed as serious as this.

Coal Miners Start Their Paid Vacation

Return To Work Hinges On New Contract

Scranton, Pa., June 24 (AP)—The nation's coal miners start a 10 day paid vacation at midnight.

The big question as the last shift files out of the mines tonight is: will the miners actually return to the pits at the end of the vacation period?

Only John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president and the coal operators hold the answer to that one.

If Lewis and the operators negotiate a contract before the present one expires June 30, the miners undoubtedly will be back on the job when the vacation ends. But what if the two factions fail to reach an agreement? Only past performance can answer that. The miners have an iron clad rule. No contract, no work.

The start of the vacation will mark the second time in two weeks the nation's coal mines have been idled. The miners left the pits last week in what Lewis called a "stabilization" walkout. They returned after a week's absence.

Peace Bid Accepted To End Bendix Tieup

South Bend, Ind., June 24 (AP)—A committee of local ministers announced today the CIO-United Auto Workers have accepted their plan for ending the long strike against the Bendix Aviation corporation here.

About 6,100 production workers struck last April 20. Chief points at issue are the discharge of 47 brake shoe workers on slowdown charges and speed up charges made by the union.

Huge Arms Budget Voted For France

Paris, June 24 (AP)—The French national assembly approved today this country's largest military budget since the war.

On a show of hands the deputies passed a budget of 383 billion francs (about $1,160,000,000).

Last year's military budget was 33 billion francs less.

MALARIA DOWNS JOE

and gas severance tax to counties where they are produced.

Beaten by the Senate alone was a measure to require smoke damage protection in any fire insurance policy.

The only cracking of the otherwise solid Democratic front in the House was on the wine bill. Five Democrats switched sides to bring about a 64-34 vote for overriding. This was still three short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

There was no debate on the floor, but the question generated so much heat in a Democratic caucus that Rep. William D. Romano (D-Van Dyke) nearly lost his job as minority floor leader. He was one of the Democrats voting for overriding.

Lansing Hunting Bottle Slayer Of Small Boy, 4

frightened to tell her parents, police said.

The body was found at 12:05 a. m. by two citizens, Kenneth Shorts, 47, and Leslie H. Kent, 28. The two men went with a police squad into a murky fastness of alleys and an unlighted railroad spur track.

The Grand River flows nearby. Walter's body was found in a heavily-weeded section of a lot owned by the Carrier Stephens Chemical Co.

Police Inspector Paul Taylor said the victim's blue jeans had been removed and his body apparently had been pulled three or four feet and left between two 50-gallon drums. Taylor said it was the work of a "sex fiend."

Fingerprints were taken from the drums.

Walter's father, Leslie Eaton, came to the scene soon after the boy's body was found.

He gasped and turned away, weeping. A friend put his arm around him and they walked off together.

The Eaton family lives above a second-hand store about a block away.

In addition to Emily, the Eatons have other daughters, Mrs. Alice Toeman, 19, and Grace, 15, and a son, Earl, 17.

Police issued a public appeal for assistance in the search for the slayer.

Inspector Taylor said the killer evidently was acquainted with his victim.

He said it was his theory that Walter was laid away unprotestingly by someone he knew and that he was slain afterwards so that he could not name his assailant.

Nearby Walter's body in the lot lay the man's grey felt hat which he wore.

The beer bottle, its cap unremoved and its bottom jaggedly broken, was identified as a "Jumbo." Police asked beer stores and taverns to cooperate in the investigation.

Police said Walter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jones, who live next door to the Eatons. Jones, a truckdriver, was having financial difficulties and the Eatons obtained permission to adopt the child.

Walter was last seen about 9:45 p. m. Coroner Gorsline said the gash in the throat was evidently the cause of death. The attacker, according to police, had struck the child first on the side of the head with the bottle, then used the jagged upper portion of the bottle to slash his neck.

Gorsline said there were other stab wounds around the face, but they had not bled, indicating they were inflicted after the child was dead.

Police in Jackson, Mich., picked up a suspect this morning. The man had ridden into Jackson on a freight. He was released, however, after questioning.

Reward Fund Started
Throughout the morning after the slaying, phones at the Lansing police headquarters kept ringing as aroused citizens called in "tips" and offered to help in the hunt.

Nothing concrete resulted from the first barrage of telephone calls but police said every angle in the case would be run down.

A group of mothers, meanwhile, planned to appeal to police and the city council for a strict enforcement of Lansing's curfew law. The law calls for minor children to be off the streets at 10 p. m. weekdays and 11 p. m. on Saturdays.

A spontaneous drive was started to collect money for a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer. A Lansing photographer, Pat Mitchell, who was called out to take pictures of the killing, started the fund with a check for $500. Mitchell is the father of three children.

Czech Protestants Back Up Catholics Minority Fights Control Of Church By Reds

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 24 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's protestant minority is reported preparing to support a traditional antagonist—the Roman Catholic church—in the latter's fight for survival against the Communist government.

A western clergyman visiting in Prague, who asked to remain anonymous, quoted Protestants in favor of the move as saying "we are next and we are lost if the Catholics succumb to state subjugation."

There are 9,000,000 Catholics in Czechoslovakia and 1,000,000 Protestants.

The Protestants—mostly Calvinists (Presbyterians)—also have been under communist pressure to submit to state control. Church leaders suspect that once the much stronger Catholic church is subdued they will have no chance of combating a government scheme to make all Protestant pastors and parishes completely dependent on the government for financial support. Such a bill was before parliament once, but was shelved temporarily.

Catholic sources, meanwhile, reported that Archbishop Josef Beran of Prague was now completely isolated from his followers. They said it was doubtful if the 60-year-old prelate could again smuggle a communication, such as Sunday's pastoral letter denouncing the government, from the ever-tightening police surveillance of his palace.

Watch Explosives, Police Chief Warns

Police Chief Michael Ettenhofer today issued a special appeal for cooperation from parents in preventing serious accidents through the use of explosives such as firecrackers.

Youngsters have been found using a carbon and water mixture in a tin can for explosions. "That is dangerous material, and can blow the heads off these youngsters," Chief Ettenhofer said.

State law forbids sale or use of firecrackers and other explosives. Those apprehended will be taken to court.

Escanaba Glove Now Employs 45 Women; Production Is Up

Production levels at the Escanaba Glove company are now averaging 600 dozen of women's fabric gloves weekly, an increase of 100 dozens weekly over the past record, Arthur Kunick, manager, has reported.

In the past 8-10 weeks several workers had been laid off because of a shortage of orders, but these have all been recalled to work. The Escanaba plant now employs 45 women.

Kunick said yesterday that though the Escanaba plant is the youngest of the Eisendrath glove factories, a broad long-range expansion program is planned. The Eisendrath company of Chicago also has plants in Menominee and Marinette.

To help meet shortages of fats and oils, Britain is operating a huge project for growing oil-rich peanuts in East Africa.
